Recommended Free Access Home Learning Resources

Dear parent/carer,

To support families who are following government guidelines to keep children at home, a number of companies have enabled free access to a range of online learning websites. We have created a list of those that we feel would be of benefit to our families some of which can be completed on line or printed and many of which will help children to continue to develop key skills in reading and maths.

Britannica School

Topic learning

Online research encyclopaedia. Useful as a source of information for children to find out more about their class topics. You will find articles, images, videos and links to useful websites and works on a desktop, tablet or phone. Pupils should search using the 'foundation' tab. This resource is free until at least 17.4.20

Oxford Owls

Reading, phonics, spelling and maths

This is a comprehensive guide for parents and carers, divided by year group and subject. Parents can access a wide range of phonic, spelling, reading and maths tips to use when working with children. It gives the age expectations in each subject for each year group, practical advice and downloadable resources (worksheets). There is a list of fun learning activities, with free downloadable resources for every subject and age group. There is also a free library of 100 e-books from the Oxford reading scheme. There is no need to sign up or log in.

Kitaboo

Reading

Kitaboo is a library of 3,000 children's e books and audiobooks that they have made free at the present time. There is a very good range of fiction and non-fiction, including classics and modern novels for UKS2 and 'first reader' books for EYFS and KS1. They will load on a desktop, tablet or phone.

Twinkle

Twinkle has put together free 'School Closure Packs.' Access is free to all, with no sign up or registration required. On the Twinkle homepage, click on the 'Coronavirus Home Learning Support Page', select 'England' and choose resources. There are some free interactive games, videos and audio clips as well as lots of free printable resources. The Parent Hub is a particularly useful resource, including ideas for Early Years, Health and Hygiene, Home Routine Timetables and Activities and Crafts
